After Adam Caperton's death his wife married a Methodist preacher, a man of ability, but very strict and he was so unkind to his stepchildren that finally Uncle Hugh adopted his nephew Hugh at about 12 years. This Hugh was your great grandfather and my grandfather. He educated as best he could his nephew. Your great grandfather Hugh Caperton was the smartest of all the Capertons. Single handed he acquired a great fortune for his day. In politics he was known as the unbeatable. He was also an engineer of ability, working on the project to connect James River and the Kanawha by canal. He opposed the venture in Congress as being impractable.

In his family he was respected and admired but not loved as a father should be. He had little, if any, patience with his children's failures and used the rod excessively. His two brothers were reared in Kentucky. One brother George lived for a while near Petersburg, V.. and later moved south. The other lived in Mentucky. I never heard my father say much about his uncles, due to the fact that the family was separated. His father was closer to his cousins that to his brothers.

Then comes my father and his five brothers: Uncle Lewis Erskine, a very reserved man, probably held back by an ambitious father; Uncle Allen Taylor Caperton (your grandfather), a great lawyer, but unlike his father not a great politician, having political honors thrust on him bu loving constituents. After the Civil War he, with many others, was persecuted by "Carpet Baggers" He successfully defended himself and others and his name is beloved in all the southern Sest Virginia counties to this day. Uncle John, a mischievous boy, had his own will and used it. As a result he was left out of his father's Will. But he went West (I think he fought in the Mexican War, and acquired a fortune. He was idolized by my father. Uncle William Gaston Caperton, named for Judge William Gaston of the Carolinas, a personal friend of my grandfather. He was a very smart and promising young man but he died suddenly of heart failure. More than any of the other boys he inherited his father's austerity; Uncle Hugh, a great lawyer, practiced in Georgetown. He was the most gifted of the family. He married a Catholic Woman much esteemed by all the family.

In the Civil War He neither took a stsnd for or against the South or the North. He was allowed the priviledge of going to the succor of wounded Southern friends.

My father, George Henry, the youngest son and the tenth child, was the most cultivated, the most retiring, the most shrinking man, but with the quickest temper I have ever known.

All of the above comes from my memory. Harry says I am dreaming, Janie smiles, but I believe it is pretty nearly correct. I am the youngest son of the youngest son for four generations.

The above account was written by William Gaston Caperton, son of George Henry, son of "Elmwood" Hugh to Mary Holt, a descendant of "Elmwood" Hugh. I t was sent to me by Bernard M. Caperton.

COOK. JOHN ALFRED
CAPERTON FAMILY
PAPER

nov 20 CLF

The present volume is intended as a kind of supplement to an exhaustive study by Bernard M. Caperton which resulted in the publication of a book entitled The Caperton Family, in which I was of some assistance.

I became interested several years ago in tracing the history of the Caperton family in America for my wife, Daphne Scott Cook, whose grandmother, Sallie Frances Caperton, was a lineal descendant of James Caperton, son of John Caperton, the immigrant.

I am including in this work a part of the correspondence between Bernard Caperton and myself to show the many problems a genealogist faces in tracing family lines.

SLAB FORK, W. VA. Aug 7 - 1921

My Dear Cousin Mary:

Following Judge Holt's request, I am going to jot down from memory the story of the Capeton family as coming from my father.

The original Caperton came from Ireland, following political and religious troubles. My Uncle John claimed in a discussion with my father, which I listened to as a boy of fourteen, that he was a Scotchman and not an Irishman. My father claimed that the family came from the Continent generations before and settled in Ireland. At first the name was not spelled Caperton, but was pronounced as it is today and in time it was Anglicized. He said that the settlement in Ireland was strictly Protestant and held aloof from Catholicism and that there was very little, if any, mixing with the Irish. He said that they were of the same stock as the followers of William the Conqueror. Although they did not belong to the nobility, they were educated people. I can't remember how my father spelled the name, but I don't think it was "Claperton", as Mr. Johnson claims in his book.

John Caperton landed in New York some years before the Revolution, either with other Capertons, or was soon followed by others, and something of a settlement was started in Connecticut. I understand that a number of Capertons live in that vecinity now. Our forefather, John, became a friend of the Indians. His ability becoming recognized, he was requisitioned to join a semi-military expedition to cross the Allegheny Mountains from Virginia. This was rather a demonstration to show the Indians what the white man could do and it was for a time successful in quieting the Indian raids against the straggling settlers. John Caperton was stationed along New River probably at what is now known as Crumps Bottom, some 10 or 15 miles southeast of Hinton. He reared his family there and became an Indian trader and a friend of the Indians. His Indian name being interpreted, means "Honest John" He joined the American cause with his three sons. All were at Valley Forge. Hugh distinguishing himself with Indian work, not so much as a fighter as a peace maker. After the Revolution John, the father, and his sons, William and Adam (our forefather) moved to what is now Kentucky. My father seemed to reverence his great Uncle Hugh and he deplored the split in the family due to the mis-alliance of the son and seemed out of sympathy with his father's stand. Uncle John was very positive in his stand for the Hugh Capertons and was a Jonathan to one Overton Caperton, a grandson of Hugh. William Caperton was a very cultured man, died rich, leaving a lot of worthy descendants.

Adam Caperton was a "sport", pure and simple. Unlike his brother Hugh, he loved to fight the Indians and was usually doing it, finally meeting his death at their hands. He was noted for his woods craft and strength. He married a woman of German descent and of strong character, and his inheritance from his father, combined with hers, made them quite rich for that day and time.

After Adam Caperton's death his wife married a Methodist preacher, a man of ability, but very strict and he was so unkind to his stepchildren that finally Uncle Hugh adopted his nephew Hugh at about 12 years. This Hugh was your great grandfather and my grandfather. He educated as best he could his nephew. Your great grandfather Hugh Caperton was the smartest of all the Capertons. CAPERTON

The Capertons are derived from a French ancestor who went from the south of France to the British Isles. The progenitor of the Monroe connection was John who crossed the Atlantic about 1725 and at length found his way from Philadelphia to the Valley of Virginia. His wife was Mary Thompson, whom he met on the ship that conveyed him to America. In 1759 we find mention on Christian Creek of John Caperton, a yeoman, whose wife was Mary. The following year John "Capbritton" is spoken of as in the vicinity of Peaked Mountain. His final location was on the east side of New River, below the mouth of Rich Creek and very near the line of Summers county. His children were Hugh, William, Adam, and Elizabeth. Hugh and Adam were in the Dunmore war and the Revolution. The former, whose wife was Rhoda, lived on the homestead. His children were Hugh, John, Thompson H., Elizabeth, Polly, Augustus W. J., Green, Washington and Overton. Some of their descendants are to be found in Mercer county. William, who married Lucy Woods in 1790, went to Kentucky. Elizabeth married James Gibson and went with him to Tennessee. Gibson county of that state is named for John H., one of their sons. Adam was a deputy sheriff of Greenbrier in 1780. His wife, who was of German parentage, was Elizabeth, a daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth (Fudge) Miller. He went to Kentucky, where he was killed in 1782 in the battle with the Indians known as Estill's defeat. His widow married a minister named Smith. The children of Adam were Mary, Elizabeth, John, George, and Hugh. Mary, who married George Swope, went to Louisiana. Elizabeth and John went with their consorts to Tennessee, and George to Alabama. Soon after the death of his father Hugh returned to his uncle's home on New River, but after the organization of this county he established himself at Union. As a merchant, even in the face of the formidable competition of the Beirnes, he was very successful, and became wealthy in land, slaves, and other forms of property. In physique he was large, and he is spoken of by Mrs Royall as handsome. He built "Elmwood," near Union, and bequeathed it to his son Allen T. It was here that he is said to have entertained Henry Clay about 1845. Mr. Caperton died in 1847 at the age of 66 years. His first wife was Jane Erskine, to whom he was married in 1806. The second, married in 1834, was Delilah Alexander, widow of George Beirne. His children, and their consorts in marriage, were as follows: Elizabeth, married (1) William Steenbergen, (2) Anders R. Rude; Lewis E., married Frances C. Alexander; Allen T., married Harriette Echols; Margaret M., married Oliver Beirne; William G., married Harriette B. Alexander in 1843, John A. married Mary E. Coke Guthrie; Hugh, married Eliza J. Mosher; Mary J., married John Echols; Sarah A., married James F. Preston; George H., married Mary E. Henderson.

The children of Lewis E. are Hugh, Elizabeth, Bettie, Henry, and Lewis. Hugh married Catharine A. King, Bettie, Andrew P. Beirne, and Lewis, Mary W. Carr. The children of Allen T. are Eliza J., Mary, wife of Tomlin Braxton, Harriette E., wife of William A. Gordon, Melinda, wife of James Patton, and later of E. F. Bingham, Allen, who married Elizabeth V. Rowan, Ella, and Lelia, wife of Robert Stiles. William G. had John, Alice B., wife of Frank Hereford, Jane E., James A., William G., who married Rosa A. Stiles Christian, and Isabel, wife of John B. Hereford, brother to Frank. John A.'s children are John H., Mary E., Sarah J., and Hugh S., the first of whom wedded Virginia Standiford. Hugh had James M., Jane, Hugh, Imogen, and Mary. Of these, James married Emma S. Ratcliffe and Hugh married Mattie Booth Kyle. The children of George H. are Eliza H., Walter, Allen T., George H. (married Anna P. Chambliss), Jane E. (wife of William M. Warrick), Sarah P. (wife of Isaac P. Wailes), Florence, and William G. (married Mary A. Austin).

At an earlier day the Capertons were very wealthy and possessed great social and political prestige. Among their best known rural seats are Elmwood, Walnut Grove, and Idlewilde.

Allen Taylor Caperton was born at Elmwood Nov. 21, 1810, and died at Washington, D. C., July 26, 1877. When a boy of fourteen he rode horseback to Huntsville, Ala., to attend school. In 1832 he was graduated from Yale College, standing seventh in a class of fifty-three. He studied law at Staunton and took up the practice of that profession in his native county. In 1841 and again in 1859-1861 he represented Monroe in the Virginia Assembly. In 1844-8 he was state senator, and in 1850 he was a member of the constitutional convention, representing Monroe, Giles, Mercer, and Tazewell. In the controversy which divided that body he stood with the western counties in advocating the white basis of representation. In the secession convention of 1861 he was present as a delegate. When the crisis came he voted for secession. At the close of hostilities he counseled his constituents that it was the part of wisdom and patriotism to accept the logic of events. In 1876 he was elected to the Federal Senate, thus enjoying the unique distinction of sitting in both the Federal and Thomas took a survey on Wolf in 1774, but by 1800 we find there several others, among whom were John (Catharine), Richard, Joseph (Margaret), and Isaac (d. 1803) (Nancy). We have no light as to the relationships among these.

C. of John: John (b. 1795) (Sarah Campbell)—David (Ill.)—James M. (——— Callaway)—Oliver (——— Ellis)—Molly (John Foster, 1817) —Sarah (Joshua Ellis)—Jennie (Peter Miller, 1813)—Lucretia (——— Wood)—Kate (s).

C. of John, Jr.: Andrew A. (b. 1818) (Martha A. Maddy, 1843)—Robert C. (b. 1820) (Sarah Hinton, 1844)—John M. (Sarah A. Young, 1851)—James A. (Rebecca Lively, 1844)—Eliza J. (Peter Hinton, 1845) —Mary C. (James Minner, 1853)—Louisa E. (b. 1838) (George Dunsmore).

C. of Andrew A.: James P. (m. in O.), Frank E. (m. in Mercer), Virginia (A. A. Carden).

C. of Robert C.: William S. (Eliza S. Reed), Sarah A. (S. B. Rader), Charles E. (Margaret E. Green), Eliza J. (James H. Green).

SMITH

It would be most extraordinary if this name did not occur in our annals. Like the Browns, Millers, and Joneses, the Smiths have been present since the early pioneer days. Our data include many marriages and other facts, yet disclose very little as to kinships. It is altogether probable that several Smith families, more or less unrelated, have been represented in Monroe. One James was driven out by the Indians but was so thoughtful as to return with 12 children to assist him in holding his ground. He may be the James (Cassandra) who was on the head of Wolf in 1805, and the Mary who wedded James Hogshead in 1779 may have been one of the dozen. One John (Catharine) died here in 1809, whose children were Christopher, Charles, Margaret, Samuel, James, George, William, Joseph. Christian (Elizabeth) (d. 1816) was advanced in years since he was made levy-free in 1811. C: William, George, John, Mary, Joseph, Elizabeth, Barbara.

Three brothers, two of whom were Jacob and Henry, came from Rockingham in their youth and settled on Indian and Back creeks. Granville, a son of one of these, married Caroline A. Clark in 1844, and lived near Salt Sulphur. C: Rimonia W. (—½— Ballard)—Rebecca P. (——— Webb)—Rufus K. (Frances E. Bilby, 1889)—Villinia R. (——— Meador)—Wilson R. (Kas.)—Rosetta R. (Jacob W. Pyne)—Elizabeth A. (——— French)—John J. (————)—Alwiddie G. (——— Kessinger)—Margaret (——— Eddy).

Dr. Rufus K. Smith was born Dec. 6, 1851, and until the close of the war was deprived of all school advantages. But at length he taught several winter terms, attending the Greenville and East River high schools in the summer season. In 1877 he was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Baltimore. Locating at Craig, Mo., he was very soon enjoying an extensive and profitable practice. During this period he several times attended post graduate courses in New York and he visited the hospitals of Europe. He was at one time president of the Missouri State Medical Society. In 1889 he removed to Seattle and was soon appointed chief surgeon of the Great Northern Railway. Nine years later he retired from the profession and with his family made a long visit to Europe. Since then he has spent his winters in Southern Europe and Southern California. Favorable investments in timber lands and city property in the young and growing Northwest made Dr. Smith a very wealthy man. He was interested in banking institutions, flouring mills, and the Alaska Steamship Co. But during his absence of nearly forty years he never ceased to cherish a warm feeling for his native county. He died Feb. 16, 1916, leaving one daughter, Mrs. Margaret B. Davis.

Dr. John J. Smith graduated in medicine in 1891 and then located like his brother in the state of Washington. He soon became very active and influential in the politics of that state, serving one term in the lower house of the legislature and two in the upper. For one year he was President of the Washington Senate. In 1904 it was in his power to become nominated as governor, and nomination would have been equivalent to election. But he withdrew in order that the western part of the state might have a United States senator. He died in 1910, aged only 41 years, leaving two children, Bernice C. and Rufus H.

SMITHSON

Thomas (d. 1832) (Sarah) was brother-in-law to John Alderson and came to the same neighborhood in 1779. Thomas (1773-1854) (Margaret Alderson).

SOVAIN

Abraham (d. 1805) (Lydia). C: Nancy, Lydia, Henry, Polly (——— Wade), Kate (——— Spickard), Elizabeth (————— Smith), Susannah (——— Cooper).

SOWARD

Isaac (d. 1803) (app. $218.47) calls himself an old man. C: Isaac, Thomas, Ruth, Mileston, Griffin, Rebecca, Nelly. Thomas, probably the same as the preceding, went from Dropping Lick to Sullivan Co., Tenn., in 1793. Solomon was living in 1809 on the divide between Hans and Indian.

SPADE

John was a native of Nuremburg, Germany, and came to America as a Hessian soldier. His wife, Mary Schæfer (1773-1857), was born in Switzerland, but he married her in Loudoun. C: Juda (Zephaniah Lowe), Catharine (William Lowe), Sophia (1807-1892) (Samuel DeHart), George (d. 1835) (s), Michael (Ann DeHart). The Lowes went to Illinois.

SPANGLER

Charles (Rhoda Peters, 1816), George (Sarah Peters, 1822), and John (1780-1845) were brothers who came in early life from Fincastle to Peterstown. Charles died 1878. John's wife was Jane ———, b. 1796, d. 1868. We are also told of Floyd and Christopher who came from Pennsylvania by way of Floyd Co.

C. of Charles: Christian L. (b. 1817), John A., Gordon G., Elizabeth J., Conrad M., Eliza A., Martha K., William H., Joseph H., Clara A. (b. 1842).

C. of George: C. P., James E., Patrick, John (Virginia Thompson); 2 other sons, 5 daughters.

The Spanglers trace their lineage to Wurzburg, a city of Bavaria. The first of note was George Spengerll, cup-bearer to the chancellor in the reign of Emperor Frederick Barbarossa. Both chancellor and cup-bearer fell victims to the plague and were buried at Antioch during one of the crusades. Caspar, Henry, Ballzer, and George settled in York county, Pa., the first named arriving 1729. Their descendants are very numerous, and a number have attained eminence in both civil and military careers. They are generally attached to one or another of the Protestant churches, often in the capacity of pastor.

John, Charles, and George, sons of Philip C., a descendant of Caspar, became orphans in their boyhood. The first was apprenticed to a blacksmith and his boys generally followed the same trade. The others were apprenticed to Jacob Peck, a tanner, ther being at the time seven tanneries in and about Peterstown, where the brothers arrived about 1800 from Fincastle. John (1780-1845) married Jane Thompson, b. 1798, d. 1868. Charles (d. 1878) married Rhoda Peters, 1816. George married Sarah Peters, 1822. The posterity of these brothers is very numerous in the south of this county.

The statement about Jacob Miller and his wife being buried near "Delany Sweeney's" is probably correct. They lived near there. The manuscript is confusing (on line 3 page 3) in speaking of John Thompson. It is not clear whether John Thompson can tell us where Jacob Miller or where John Caperton was buried. At least the author does say that John Caperton "...died in Monroe and was buried near Rulsterns". The Ralston family did live on Hans Creek near where we last heard that John Caperton was living.

Genealogy of the Caperton Family

John Caperton of Ireland had an only child called John, who left Ireland after having killed a man & was never heard of afterwards. John, the father, after the death of his wife came to America & met with Polly Thompson, who was likewise from Ireland, in Pennsylvania, to whom he was soon after married. From Pennsylvania he came to Rockingham & settled on Shenandoah River, had four sons & four (4) daughters, viz. Adam, Hugh, William & James — Sarah, who married Henry Gibson (father of Col. Gibson), Betsy, who married Joshua Townsend, Mary, who married George Sharpe & Nancy, who married James Kelly (in Indiana).

After the death of his wife married Betsy Miller, daughter of Jacob Miller in Rockingham in Shenandoah at the mouth of Cub run — by whom he had four children, 3 sons & one daughter, John, George (for whom Henry was called), Betsy & Hugh (our father). He (Adam) fought at the battle of the Point in 1774 & was afterwards killed by the Indians on 23rd March 1782 at Estill's defeat, in what is now Montgomery county Kentucky near Mount Sterling, on a creek called Hinkston. About the 23rd March — 82 it was discovered, that a parcel of indians were in the vicinity of Estills station & a force from the fort — numbering 34 headed by James Estill went in pursuit & crossing the Kentucky river in safety, overtook the Indians on Hinkston. The Indians were in the stream & while in the act of crossing were fired upon by the whites, the chief was wounded, and the others commenced a flight; but being strongly appealed to by the wounded chief, returned & fought with great valor. Estill sent a detachment of nine men under Lieut. Wm. Miller, who was to attack the the Indians in the rear; the Indians discovered the ambush, fired upon the whites and Miller & his detachment retreated. After this the fight was equal, 24 on Each side; Estill was wounded in the thigh & afterwards tomahawked. the Indian however who tomahawked him was shot by Jos. Proctor (afterwards a Methodist Preacher & now living)

Adam Carpenter (Grandfather) was shot through the heart & having deranged appeared himself & was tomahawked. Alanson Coats was shot through with two bullets from same gun, balls entering under left shoulder & coming out under his left [redacted] Col. [redacted] of Madison County wounded, surviving, shot through the lungs.

Lieu. Jack Smith of Fayette cty escaped unhurt;

Lieu Sam Scott late Treasurer of Ky escaped unhurt.

James Berry wounded in the thigh.

Proctor escaped unhurt;

Eight Indians escaped 4 wounded, two of whom died afterwards.

Betsy Carpenter after the death of Adam married Col. Smith & had 3 daughters, Polly who married Harrison, Nancy who married McNat & Sally who married Neely. She, (Betsy) died in Kentucky on Otter Creek in Madison County, Jacob Miller the father of Betsy died in Monroe, together with his wife. & were buried on a hill near Delany Sevierny's.

John Thompson can tell where, John Carpenter was buried. He died in Monroe & was probably buried near Bulstrons. Jacob Miller & his wife, both came from Germany, Had only two daughters, Betsy & Barbary, Barbary married. The sons of Jacob were Jacob, Charles, John & George. Jacob was a great coy in Kentucky, settled in Madison, & afterwards moved to Estill, where he died. George lives in Indiana with a large family, John also in Indiana, Charles died early. Jacob after the death of his wife, married Peggy Sullerman by whom he had, Peter, Daniel, Joseph, Peggy, Rhoda & Sally. Peter is in Indiana, Jo in Indiana who [redacted] place, the other [redacted] Daniel died in Monroe. Peggy married Joseph Swope. George Miller married a sister to John Swope. Rhoda married Joel Simmons - lives in Indiana - Sally married [redacted] Maddy

THE "ELMWOOD" CAPERTON MANUSCRIPT

This document of three pages is the earliest manuscript written on the Caperton family that has come to my attention. I have included a photo-copy of the original in this appendix so that you can compare for yourself the various aspects of it that I have discussed in the preceeding work. It was among the papers of William Gaston Caperton (F-24A45). Gaston probably obtained it from his father who had probably obtained it from his father, George Henry Caperton (D-24A). Gaston states that he thought it was written by Sarah Caperton Preston, but does not definitely attribute the document to her.

The manuscript is unsigned, and it has always been thought that it was written by Sarah Caperton Preston (D-249), daughter of Hugh Caperton of "Elmwood". There is no doubt that it was written by a child of Hugh of "Elmwood" as he is spoken of as "our father" in line 15 of the first page. I have compared the handwriting of all of the children of Hugh of "Elmwood" from old letters, and find that I can eliminate all children except Sarah Ann and Allen T. I am still in doubt as to which of these two wrote the document. I have been unable to find a handwriting expert to give me any opinion on whether Allen T. or Sarah wrote it. I have no letters written by Sarah when she was young. Her correspondence which I have compared with this document were written in the 1870's which is probably 20 years after I think the document was written. I am including a tracing of letters from the manuscript and the same letters from Allen's and Sarah's correspondence for your own comparison.

There is also a question as to when the manuscript was written. There are four letters in the CAPERTON-GORDON Papers that were written on the same stationery on which the manuscript is written. These letters were from Allen T. Caperton and Gen. John Echols to George Henry Caperton, and they were all written in Union, W. Va. from Sept. 1857 to Dec. 1858. This stationery has the same embossed mark in the upper left corner, and the same watermark. All letters and the manuscript obviously were written on stationery that originated from a common source whether it was the local store or the home of one of the writers. Sarah Ann Caperton Preston was married at this time, but I know from other letters that she visited in Union each summer during these years. It seems that the manuscript could be dated by these letters written on the same paper, but that is not conclusive.

From internal evidence, the manuscript could have been written before 1844. On line 10 of page 2 the author speaks of Joseph Proctor: "(afterwards a Methodist Preacher & now living)". This Joseph Proctor did not die until 1844 at the age of 89. If the author of the manuscript is correct about Proctor still being alive when the manuscript was written, then it would have been written before 1844. If we consider the distance and time involved, it could be that Proctor was alive the last time the author heard anything of him, so that I do not believe we can conclusively date the document by this statement. There is no other statement in the document by which we can get a more definate date.

Both Allen T. and Sarah Ann Caperton were old enough to have heard the stories about the family and the Indian Battle from their father, and both of them were the kind of people who would have been interested and remembered them. Their father would have heard the stories about the early Capertons and Millers from his Uncle Hugh Caperton and from his mother. Whether Allen T. or Sarah Ann actually wrote the manuscript makes little difference, but we can be certain that if Sarah wrote it she very likely did it while at "Elmwood", and would have asked her older brother for his help if it was needed.

The notation in pencil at the end of the document - "Incomplete for reasons unknown - G.H.C." - is in the handwriting of George Henry Caperton D-24A. I suspect the document was sent to him by the author; perhaps, at his request. George Henry had married in 1854, and just might have heard so much Henderson, Holcombe, and Royall genealogical talk from his in-laws (with whom he was living), that he asked for help about his own ancestors from his brother or sister.

A few comments on the contents of the document itself are now in order:

I have commented on the facts or falacies of the first three lines in Appendix III. I do not think we can completely disregard this earlier story of John Caperton's earlier marriage, and of his son, John, Jr., killing a man in Ireland. This need not have been a crime of passion, but I do think I should point out my suspicion that we do not have the complete story of this event in Ireland. This wouldn't have been mentioned if there weren't some semblance of truth in it. Perhaps there was a son who committed this crime; but perhaps it was committed by John, Sr.; and his Victorian great grandchild who wrote the manuscript was not told, or did not report, the whole truth of the matter.

It is possible that the Capertons went from England to Ireland and then to America. The Thompsons could well have come to America from Scotland by way of Ireland. Whether or not they came in through Pennsylvania, I do not know. It is very likely that they did. From this point in the manuscript, I can substantiate almost every other statement.

I have been able to substantiate the list of children of John and Polly Caperton, and the facts about the Miller family are all correct. I have been unable to substantiate the second marriage of Elizabeth Miller Caperton, but letters from relatives do mention it, and also mention two of the three children of her second marriage.

The account of the Indian Battle in which Adam Caperton was killed seems to be correct in all aspects when compared to other published accounts. Even if this manuscript was written in 1857-1858, it was written before Wm. A. Gordon's family history was published, and before the 1876 celebrations in Kentucky with the accompanying publications celebrating the event. I believe this manuscript is one of the earliest extant accounts of the "Battle of Estill's Defeat" of March 22, 1782.

SOWARDS, Isaac is buried on a knoll just south of Zenith opposite Peters Mt. The grave is marked with a stone saying he died in 1810 but according to Neil Soward, a descendant and the informant Isaac died in 1803. This grave is about 2 city blocks past the little store at Zenith. His will is among the first 30 registered in the Monroe County courthouse. In 1983 Neil lived at 548 Home Avenue, Fort Wayne, IN 46807

COPELAND, William Cullen, an infant and another person are buried near Rock Camp off the Wikle road near the ballfield north of town on the old Jacob & Cora WICKLINE homeplace. (Jacob & Cora are buried in Fortner Cemetery on the Pete Amos Rd.) There is also supposedly Sarah & William Andrew HARVEY buried on this place. Phyllis Martin Harvey grew up here and gave us this information. She resides in Lindside.

CHEWNING place has a cemetery on it too Mrs. Harvey says. She suggests you contact Jack HARVEY or one of the other HARVEYs in the Rock Camp area for this one.

BECKNER cemetery on the homeplace of Mildred Trail Allen near Union has no markers.

SWEENEY/SWINNEY(Delaney's) on the shale bank at Lindside has been cleaned out and grassed over. The current owners say no markers were present and they also consulted an attorney before they cleaned up the area. They were told that slaves were buried there.

MILLER, Jacob and his wife, Elizabeth Fudge(1st wife), d. 1808 and 1777 respectively, were buried on ahill near Delany SWEENEY's according to the Elmwood CAPERTON manuscript. This location is unknown.

The Norman Record

The George Norman record provides the following information on Leven:

"Leven McNatt born in Tennessee February 14, 1787, died of cancer in 1856 at almost seventy years of age, in what is now Lawrence County, Missouri.

He was small, of rather fair complexion with reddish hair. He could neither read or write. Was of a rather rugged, reckless disposition. A lover of horses and races. He served in the War of 1812 and was participant in all the great battles of this war, especially the battle of New Orleans on Jan. 18, 1815.

He was married in Tennessee to Miss Nancy Smith who seemed to be of a very good family. Col. Carpenter, a half brother of Miss Smith, was in the U. S. Senate from West Virginia at the close of the Civil War. He was a Col. in the Indian war where he was wounded. He was a cousin to William H. McNatt. A brother, John E. Brooks, who was a son of Leven's sister-in-law, was a minister.

In abstracting the deeds an attempt was made to organize most deeds in the following order. a) Page number of the ledger; b) Date the deed was written, not filed; c) Deed grantor; d) Amount of land; e) Amount paid for land; f) Grantee; g) Location of land by land marks and to those the land is adjacent to and miscellaneous significant information. Throughout Grbr means Greenbrier, adj means close by, next to, adjoining, etc; sh stands for shillings throughout the document. Where a small stream empties into a larger one this is designated by a connecting slash ..ie Anthony Ck/Grbr River. This is of significance where streams such as Glade, Laurel, Mill etc are used as there may be several of the same named stream in one county.

In reviewing the deeds be reminded that much land was owned without the owner ever coming close to the land. In "The History Of Greebrier County", Mr Rice found twenty outsiders that had land warrants for more than 10,000 acres. Robert MORRIS had 200,000 with the most and the twentieth being Freserick YEISER. Several residents of Greenbrier had large holding. See pages 91-93 of his (Mr Rice's) book.

PREFACE

The 1787 tax list is a unique one. It is the result of a law passed by the Virginia Assembly on the 11th of October 1786 which mandated that the tax commissioner should "on the tenth day of March annually, begin and continue proceeding without delay through their respective district, and call on every person subject to taxation or having property in his or her possession for a written list thereof . . . make four alphabetical general lists therefrom, shewing in columns according to the form hereto also annexed, the date when each list was received, the persons chargeable with the tax or taxes, and the number or quantity of every species of property, inserting particularly the names of all [not just heads of household!] free males subject to tax, distinguishing those also subject only to parish and county levy. . ."

This law was different from the prior law concerning the personal property taxes in that the commissioner was to call on each person at that person's residence [before this the people took their list to the commissioner]. He was to make a note of the day that he took the lists. Also a form was given for commissioners to use which had a column for the names of the males over 21 years of age. They had previously been instructed to get the names of these persons, and also of the slaves over 16, but had rarely done so. Additionally they were to note the number of free white males between 16 and 21.

The tax on white males aged 21 years and up was repealed on the 12th of October 1787. Some of the tax commissioners continued using the 1787 tax form for a year or two—much to our benefit—but the 1787 list is the only one in which it was required. This makes it an extremely important list and is the reason we have chosen to use that year as a "census" of Virginia.

The composite "1787 Census of Virginia"—made up of the tax lists of all the counties—is an invaluable tool in locating early Virginia ancestors. The individual county lists (of which this is one) goes further than the composite, however. The lists are given twice in the individual county books—once in the original order, then again rearranged by the date on which the commissioner had visited each taxpayer. This second list makes it possible to tell who the neighbors were since it appears evident that the commissioner visited those living in the same vicinity on the same day. It would also seem likely that he stayed at the residence of one of the persons he visited and continued in the neighborhood the next day. However, be very careful in assuming this.

The tax lists sometimes give information that was not required by the law. Such information has been placed under the "Notes" section. One of the particularly helpful notations often made by the tax commissioners was the identification of two people with the same name. This is a problem that genealogists frequently have. Since the commissioners also needed to differentiate between two John Smiths, they made notes such as "son of Peter", "Beaver Creek", or "blacksmith".

Knowing whether an ancestor was liable for the poll (tithable) tax is also often revealing. Reasons for being exempt included: being a woman; being old and infirm (in which case othe should be able to find in the county Order Books a law making him exempt); and an occupation of clergyman or professor. Certain political jobs—from constable (at the county level) to governor (at the state level) were cause for exemption. White males between sixteen and twenty-one were subject to a county parish tithe, but not to the state poll tax. Indians also were exempt. Persons living out of the county may be listed because they owned property in the county, but they themselves were exempt except in the county in which they resided. Sometimes the tax commissioner noted the county or state in which out-of-county taxpayers lived.

"Levy free" and "not tithable" are synonymous. However, when the tax commissioner wrote "levy free", he probably meant the person had been legally exempted from paying the tax by the county court. Any time a person's name did not appear in the column to be counted as a poll, we have indicated this by inserting " [not tithable] " in the notes. Some of these were no doubt levy free because of court orders, while others were exempt from the poll for other reasons.

All names have been left in their original spellings., but coss references have been made in the index to unusual spellings to assist the researcher. For instance, Austin - see Ostin, and Montgomery - see Magummery. All such misspellings may not be cross-referenced, so check all possible phonetic spellings for the names you are researching.

Other Adjoining Lots

The ownership of other adjoining lots was investigated to see if there was any linkage to either Sterling Thornton or Thornton Almond. The lots studied included 47–64, 47–55, 47–52 and 47–52A. No connection could be established. The northern-most lot, 47–52A, is owned by the Mattaponi reservation.

Results

The investigation of the unidentified lots adjoining the Clifton parcels showed that in the early 1900s the descendants of Thornton Allmond owned nearly all of the land on both sides of Indian Town Road from the Reservation to Wakema Road.

In Conclusion

This study was undertaken to determine the location and boundaries of a tract of land called Clifton in King William County, Virginia, owned between the 1850s and the end of the century by Sterling S. Thornton. Lying along Indian Town Road between Wakema Road and the Mattaponi Indian Reservation, the property passed from Sterling Thornton in parcels to members of the Mattaponi Indian tribe. The land has remained largely undeveloped. There are only two homes located on the more than a dozen, large lots that front Indian Town Road. The balance of the land is wooded. In the 1800s, the land supported significant logging. Wood was shipped down the Mattaponi River from a wharf on one of the old Clifton parcels. The wharf is long since gone, but timber harvesting has resumed on some of the land.

A Surname in Transition: The "Lost" Will of Johannes Fotsch (John Futch/Fudge), Rockingham County, Virginia, 1782

Rockingham County, Virginia, is not generally classified as a "burned county." As only the wills and deeds sustained extensive damage in 1864, the county is usually referred to as merely being "singed." Yet, only 268 wills are now recorded in the county's earliest will book, Will Book A, and many of them are mere fragments. Happily, about two score more antebellum wills have surfaced in recent years and each is regarded as a welcome addition. The will of Johannes Fotsch (John Futch/Fudge) is yet another such happy addition. A copy of Fotsch's 1782 will is contained within Rockingham County, Virginia, Record of Land Causes 1 & 2, Stephen Conrad vs. Jeremiah Hansbarger, pages 98–115 .The case began at a Superior Court held for Rockingham County on Monday the 27th of April 1818. The copy of the will appears on pages 111–112.

In the Name of God Amen I John Futch of the county of Rockingham and state of Virginia being in my perfect senses & health thanks be to god for it I do make and constitute this to be my last will & Testament, Imprimis as here after shall follow

Faulcon & Company
Account of Goods Shipped Through Mount Airy
15 December 1776—November 1779*

Dennis Ray Hudgins

At the end of Surry County Order Book, 1775–1785 are 49 numbered pages containing the Faulcon & Company accounts of goods & freight shipped through Mount Airy between 15 December 1776 and November 1779. Those entries were written from the back to the front of the respective order book. The location of Mount Airy in Surry County is unknown at this time, but it must have been Faulcon property, somewhere between the old town of Cobham (at the mouth of Grays Creek) down the James River to somewhere on Cobham Bay. Among other river property, Faulcon and Company owned two lots and a storehouse in the old town of Cobham. A transcription of these shipping accounts follows the list of references found in those accounts:

The Virginia Genealogical Society, formed 7 October 1960, published several occasional bulletins between June 1961 and January 1963 when it began serial publication of the Virginia Genealogical Society Quarterly Bulletin issued in January, April, July and October. This title ran for seven volumes in a format 8½ by 11 inches, mimeographed, corner-stapled. Volume VIII (1970) was renamed the Virginia Genealogical Society Quarterly. A magazine format, 6 by 9 inches, saddle-stitched, with text reproduced from typewritten copy, was adopted in 1971, running through Volume XVIII, followed by three volumes issued as The Quarterly of the Virginia Genealogical Society. The present title and publication sequence (February, May, August, November) were adopted in February 1984 (Volume XXII, No. 1). Since that date, the magazine has attained a printed page count of approximately 320 pages per volume, not counting its index. Back issues of volumes 22 to the present are available for purchase.

AKA: Johann Peder Futch, Johan Peter Fuchs.
John married the widow Sheitly (Shitly, Shutly), before leaving Hanover, Germany. They left Germany in 1774. His wife, the former widow, died in Plymouth, enroute to America. John contimued his voyage to America, bringing his step daughters with him. The ship Phoenix sailed from Rotterdam, Holland, under Capt. William Wilson and arrived in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania on October 20, 1744. John and 107 other immigrants from the same ship signed their oaths of allegiance to King George of England the same day. John settled in the Shenandoah area of Augusta county, Virgina in the 1740s.
The children of John present us with another problem, his marriages. We know of only two; his marriage to the widow Sheitly and that to Katharine, after settling in Augusta County, the section that is now Rockingham County, Virginia. Some researchers believe that John had no children by his wife, the widow Sheitly. Many believe that John was married three times.
The children who can be documented as belonging to John are, Conrad, John, Elizabeth and David.
The "traditional" children of John include, Jacob, Anna Katherine, Barbara, and some who died in infancy. None of these have been proven to belong to John, and there is some reason to believe that Barbara and Anna, at least, belong to a different generation.
John, Jr. and David can definately be assigned to Katherine, the others can't. From her marriage date, Elizabeth had to be born before John's marriage to Katherine. Since we do not know the marriage date to the widow Sheitly, we can't determine whether she was the mother of Elizabeth. Conrad could have been the son of John and the widow, but again, no proof. It is possible that both were from a marriage prior to that of the widow. There were many Fudges in the colonies in the eighteenth century. Some of them were in Virginia and it is possible that one or more of the "traditional" children of John belong to another family.

Carpenter vs. Fonts (Fotch).--Chancery. Writ dated 24th November, 1763. Complainants are George Carpenter and Ann, his wife; Stephen Hantsberger and Ursilla, his wife; Matthew Hearce and Francis, his wife, daughters and co-heirs of John Shitley, deceased; that John Shitley was an inhabitant of the German Empire, where he died, having a small personal estate, leaving behind him your oratrices, then very young, and ----, his wife, mother of oratrices, and one of the defendants, who by the laws and customs of the empire, possessed herself of the small fortune of her husband. Shortly after the father's death, the widow, thinking to benefit herself and children, transported herself to America, bringing with her your oratrices and what remained of John Shitley's estate, amounting to near £100, Virginia currency, and some time after her arrival married John Fotch, the other defendant, who took possession of all the effects. That as your oratrices grew up, they intermarried (as above) and their husbands frequently applied to the said John Fotsch and wife for the parts due their wives, but obtained only £20 Pennsylvania Currency, £7 Virginia Currency, and 2 horses, worth £14, for which they gave receipt to Fotsch, expecting to receive the remainder in a short time, but now so it is, he refuses to pay them anything more.

John Fotch's answer: He married the widow of John Shitley in Germany and not in America, and that on her passage to America she died at Plymouth. He never possessed himself of any part of Shitley's estate, for he died insolvent, except a few trifling bed clothes made use of by his children on shipboard, but he says the grandfather of oratrices, Malchia Shitley, left them goods and chattels which this defendant, marrying their mother, possessed himself of, and before he came to America sold for as much money as came to £67 Virginia Currency, of which defendant expended £8 for oratrices for provisions and carriage from Switzerland to Holland, where they took shipping, almost 300 miles. He also paid for their passage to America the sum of 16 pistoles, and provisions growing short on shipboard, he was obliged to expend 30 shillings. Having landed in Maryland and intending to settle at Tulpahocken in Pennsylvania, he spent £3, 15 for provisions and carriage to that place. That he left Germany in 1744, and about 2 or 3 years after he came to this country he advanced to oratrices £25 in Virginia Currency, and two mares of the price of £14, 10.

That lately, on 31st March, 1762, he and complainants came to a final settlement and defendant agreed to settle with them £42.

Augustine Price deposes before Felix Gilbert: That is March, 1762, in company with George Carpenter, John Fotch and others, Carpenter and Fotch agreed to leave their dispute to Jacob Pershinger, Jacob Nicholas and Daniel Price, but they could not agree, when they came to an agreement themselves, the only question remaining whether Virginia or Pennsylvania Currency.

Daniel Price deposes the same.

Jacob Miller deposes: That being at the house of John Fotch some time in March, 1749, he heard George Carpenter ask three Gerles, that were heirs to the estate of ----, if they were satisfied with what they had received.

Jacob Pershinger deposes like Augustine Price.

Barbary Miller deposes, that being in company with Usley Shutling in 1750, Usley said she had received a mare and some clothes, and was well satisfied.

John vs. Samples.--Know all men, &c., I, Robert Samples, of Augusta, farmer and holder, &c., unto William English, of Augusta, bricklayer, &c., 17th December, Annoque Domini, 1763. Conditioned to pay in horses, mares or cattie, £17, 10. Test: Samuel Hull, Samuel Sample. Endorsed, 17th May, 1766, to Andrew Johnston. (Signed) William (mark) English.

While going through old Rockingham County, Virginia land causes, I found the last will & testament of John Fudge, dated August 8, 1782, probated May 26, 1784. I don't descend from the Fudge family, but they were near neighbors of my ancestors. John's will was witnessed by Bruten Smith, the brother of my 4th great grandfather. I hope this help some Fudge researchers.

Good Question -- I have not checked the Rockingham will index to see if it's there, but most of the wills of that time period were burned.

The will is in the clerk's office -- along with the old deeds and marriage books -- in Land Dispute Book #1, p 111. There is also an old plat which shows the lands of 1. John Fudge, 2. Conrad Fudge & Christian Fudge, his son, & 3. Daniel Fudge & Jacob Davidson (these three tracts were adjoining)on p. 252 in the case of Jeremiah Harnsbarger vs. Stephen Conrad.

Best, Jan

You've done a good job transcribing this will. I found it very difficult to read. There are two copies in my possession, the first Rockingham County Courthouse Will Book 1, page 7; and the other from Record of Land Causes #182 pg 111 and 112. They are both copies and appear to be identical.

The document in the Record of Land Causes contains, on page 112, the indenture for land given to Jacob Fudge by his grandfather -- as stated in the will. It is dated 6 May 1803. I suspect there is another document related to John Fudge and his estate on page 110 -- possibly David Fudge.

My cousin and I are translating the signature written in German as that of Hans FOTSCH not John FUTCH. More on that later.
